City of Edinburg celebrates unprecedented construction activity boom in 2023

Edinburg, TX - There was another remarkable surge in construction activity in September 2023 in the City of Edinburg, underscoring the city's growth and economic vitality. According to the latest building permit report, Edinburg has recorded a staggering $27.6 million in construction activity, marking a significant increase compared to $20.4 million during the same period last year. This surge encompasses both residential and commercial developments, showcasing the city's robust real estate sector.

With a consistent and robust growth trajectory throughout the year, the City of Edinburg is on track to surpass all previous construction activity records. Year-to-date figures reveal that Edinburg has witnessed an astounding $333.5 million in construction activity, a remarkable upswing from the $256.1 million recorded in the previous year. It's safe to say that 2023 has been nothing short of a banner year for the City of Edinburg.

"This remarkable increase in construction activity is a testament to Edinburg's appeal as a dynamic and thriving community. It reflects our commitment to economic development and our dedication to creating opportunities for both residents and businesses," Mayor Ramiro Garza Jr. said. "We are proud of the strides we have made and look forward to a bright future for our city."

The increase in construction activity not only translates into a boost in the local economy but also underscores Edinburg's reputation as a destination for growth, innovation, and investment. As the city continues to attract new residents and businesses, it solidifies its position as a premier place to live, work, and thrive.

The City of Edinburg extends its gratitude to the dedicated individuals, businesses, and organizations that have contributed to this remarkable achievement. This collaborative effort has not only enhanced the city's physical landscape but also strengthened its sense of community and identity.
